Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If the period for reply specified above is less than thirty (30) days, a reply within the statutory minimum of thirty (30) days will be considered timely.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 59,64,and 80-87 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Osterheld et al.

Osterheld et al. teaches a polishing pad comprising a first set of grooves, 184a, disposed in a first area, and having a first width, and a second set of grooves, 184b, disposed in a second area and having a second width, wherein the first set of grooves do not intersect the second set of grooves and wherein the first width is smaller than the second width, and the first area is disposed in a center of the polishing pad, (in this instance W2 of fig. 11 encompasses the first area), and the first area is disposed at edges of the polishing pad, (in this instance W4 of fig 11 encompasses the first area).

Osterheld et al. also teaches a polishing pad comprising a first set of grooves disposed in a first area, and having a first density, and a second set of grooves disposed in a second area and having a second density, the first density being smaller than the second density, and the first area being disposed in a center of the polishing pad, (in this instance, W2 of fig. 11 encompasses the first area), and the first area being disposed at the edges of the polishing pad, (in this instance W4 of fig. 11 encompasses the first area). In reference to the claimed limitation that the first area corresponds to a center of a wafer to be polished on the polishing pad and to edges of a wafer to be polished on the polishing pad, Osterheld claims that, if the substrate is an 8 in. or twelve in. diameter disk, then the platen and polishing pad will be about 20 inches, (col. 5, lines 9-13), and he goes on to further claim that the carrier head independently laterally oscillates in a radial slot, (col. 5, lines 60-66). Therefore, if the wafer is smaller than the pad and oscillates across the pad, then at some point during the oscillation the first area will correspond to the center and edges of the wafer.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 54 and 76-79 are allowed.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 59,64 and 80-87 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
